There was a brief discussion initiated by Mr. Dulles respecting the briefing of Admiral Radford (Headquarters in Hawaii) respecting CIA operations and activities in Southeast Asia. The DCI pointed out that the Navy has the responsibility for keeping Admiral Radford informed and also that there are Army and Air Force officers having responsibilities in the same area. The DCI approved having Messrs. Kirkpatrick and [] brief Admiral Radford when they pass through Hawaii on their forthcoming trip, but indicated that he desired to ascertain from the Navy how Navy wanted the once-a-month or other periodic briefing of Admiral Radford handled.

Mr. Dulles referred to a phone call from Adm. Johnson respecting a recent request for certain Naval officers, which had been made by CIA. Adm. Johnson stated that the specific individuals desired were key men, but he would be willing to supply adequate substitutes. During the discussion on this point, the DCI indicated that military personnel should not be requested by name. The qualifications desired should be given and individuals might be pointed to as exemplifying the caliber desired.

The DCI noted the CIA item predicting a probable revolt in Thailand.

Mr. Wisner reported that our best present information was that Donnelly (presently in Austria) might well succeed McCloy.

There was a brief discussion of the possibility of picking up some Communist agents in retaliation for the imprisoning and fining of American flyers by Hungary. It was the consensus of the meeting that this matter should be looked into, but that it might well be more desirable to keep known agents under surveillance, rather than to pick them up and have to discover and become acquainted with their replacements.
